

Junior Resident of Department of Pathology wins laurel at Cytocon 2019

The annual Conference of the Indian Academy of Cytologists (CYTOCON 2019) was held at PGIMER, Chandigarh from Nov-7-10th, 2019.

Dr. Vidhyavikashini B, Second year Junior Resident was awarded the prize for the best poster for her work on Cytomorphological evaluation of malignant cells from non-hematolymphoid neoplasm in cerebrospinal fluid samples: A study of 17 cases.

Dr. Surendra Verma and Dr. N.Siddaraju, both Professors Senior Scale and Dr. Debasis Gochhait, Associate Professor attended. Dr. Verma was invited to chair a session while Dr. Siddaraju and Dr. Debasis were invited as guest faculty in the pre-conference CME on fluid cytology- approach and diagnostic difficulty and presented interesting cases.

Three residents had oral paper presentations. The details of which are provided below.

DR.DEVI V. Senior Resident - Cytomorphological evaluation and examination in diagnosis of gouty arthritis.

DR. ARTHY R. Final year PG -Diagnostic utility of FNAC in intra-oral and maxillofacial region and to compare with histopathology.

DR. MANJU BALA, Second Year PG - Retrospective study of cytomorphological features of nodal peripheral T cell lymphoma.